Extension & Made.

"This particular recommendation is reflected in Section 10 of the Clayton antitrust act. That act became law on October 15, 1914, and it was provided that Section 10 should not become effective until two years after that date; in order that the carriers and others affected might be able to adjust their affairs so that no inconvenience or confusion might result from the enforcement of its provisions. Further extension of time, amounting in all to more than four years and two months, have since been made.

extension of time, amounting in all to more than four years and two months, have since been made.

"These were in part due to the intervention of federal control, but ten months have now elapsed since the resumption of private operation. In all, over six years have elapsed since this enactment was put upon the statute books, so that all interests concerned have had long and ample notice of the obligations it imposes.

"The interstate commerce commission has adopted rules responsive to the requirements of Section 10. In deferring the effective date of Section 10, the congress has excepted corporations organized after January 12, 1918, and as to such corporations the commission's rules are now in effect. Therefore, it appears that the necessary preliminary steps have long since been taken to put Section 10 into effect, and the practical question now to be decided is whether the partial application of these rules shall be continued until January 1, 1922, or whether their application and now become general, thus bringing under them all common carriers engaged in commerce, and at last giving full effect to this important feature of the act a October 15, 1914.

"The grounds upon which further extension of time is asked, in addition to the six years and more that have already elapsed, have been stated as follows:

"That the carrying into effect of the existing provisions of Section 10 will result in needless expenditures on the part of carriers in many instances; that some of its prisions are unfavorable, and that the changed aftures of the carriers and the enactment of the transportation act require a revision of Section 10 in order to make it consistent with provisions of the transportation act.

it consistent with provisions of the transportation act.

"When it is considered that the congress is now in session and can readily adopt suitable amendments if they shall be found to be necessary, which reasons for further delay appear to me to be inadequate. The soundness of the principle embodied in Section 10 appears to be generally admitted. The wholesome effects which its application was intended to produce should no longer be withheld from the public and from the common carrier immediately concerned, for whose protection it was particularly designed.

INCOME DEDUCTIONS FOR DEPLETION GIVEN

Washington, December 30.—Regulations covering deductions from net income permitted taxpayers for depletion of mines, oils and gas wells, and for depreciation of improvements, were issued today by the bureau of internal revenue.

Owners of mineral deposits, under the regulations, are to secure, through an aggregate of annual depletion and depreciations, deductions the return of either capital invested in the property or the value of the property on the basic date, plus subsequent allowable capital additions, but not including land values for purposes other than the extraction of minerals. The regulations cover in detail the various factors to be taken into account in ascertaining the amount to be deducted for depletion or depreciation.

Overwhelming Vote of ernment When- Challenge From New Party Comes.

Paris, December 30 .- (By the Associated Press.)—An overwhelming vote of confidence in the government in connection with the Tours ocialist congress was given by the chamber of deputies this evening. The vote, which was 451 to 54, came after the gauntlet had been thrown down to the government by the new communist party of France, formed at the Tours congress, and acceptance of the challenge on behalf of the government had been made by Minister of the Interior Steege. Deputy Marcel Cachin told the chamber that revolutionary efforts continue, despite any action the covernment might take. In reply, M. Steege warned the revolutionary party that any attempt at revolution would be suppressed with all the means in the hands of the gov

The debate arose from an interpellation of M. streets of Atlanta, while the woman he should have loved wept in a cell to which he had sent her after he had murdered her sout.

She was Louise DeLorney, and was only 22, which isn't any sophisticated age, even for a girl who hasn't been but a few months out of a country town where gingham dresses are still in vogue and a church sociable as the town's dizziest function.

He was Private O. DeLorney, of the Motor Transport corps, and he had soldiered all over the country, and knew a lot, and he was mighty wroth when he went to police head-quarters and told detectives that his bride had put a blot on his escutcheon and disgraced his fair name.

The girl didn't know much about policemen. She had never seen one until she came to Atlanta just a few months ago, but when they locked her up she told them of what she thought was her guilt.

She had fiolated the commandment, she admitted, but she had done it because the gallant soldier that she loved had begged her to seek other men and the sordid gains of that association. But she had quit that life—honestly she had—and he got mighty mad when she told him that she was going to be a girl of the streets no longer.

Now policemen have hearts and they have sense, particularly at Christmas time. They told the girl's story to federal agents. So Thursday the girl was released from her cell and the soldier, who had confessed, occupies one mearby and there are charges against him in the stafe courts that are likely to give him an enforced absenge from gallantries before he has to face a stern federal court or the sternest of all tribunals, to which all men must answer.

Miss Rous to

Music lovers are eagerly looking forward to the concert of Miss Marion Rous, the beautiful and talented young Florida musician, which will be given on Wednesday morning in the annex of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, on Piedmont avenue. Miss Rous will appear under the auspices of the Atlanta Music Study club.

The young southern woman has within the past two years taken a commanding place in the field of musical exposition. She has recently filled engagements in Cleveland, Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Stamford, Conn., and many other northern points as well as southern cities, where critics have greeted her with the greatest cordiality.

She is a pianist of very fine technical equipment, and the dellightful temperament which she is able to put into her playing lends to all that she does a fascinating distinction. Personally she is a woman of great beauty and charm, and with an engaging manner that serves her in excellent stead as a lecturer. Her humor is very contagious and has helped her talks over many a stretch of modernism, which otherwise might prove a triffe dry.

Miss Rous is already known in Atlanta by reason of her lecture-recital last season called "What Next in Music?" This was perhaps the most significant educational event of the musical year; for in this illustrated lecture, Miss Rous took up the modern composers of the present day, giving a brief glimpse of their life and work and then played one of their radical compositions. More than one of the younger composers got his first nublic hearing in Atlánta at that time.

younger composers got his first public hearing in Atlanta at that younger composers got his first nublic hearing in Atlanta at that time.

This year, Miss Rous will bring a message of equal interest, also about the moderns. Her recent investigations have carried her into new and entirely undeveloped territory, especially among the young Englishmen, who have rarely been heard on this side. Additional interest centers in this great part of her program, due to the recent-appearance here of Cyril Scott, whose work she included in her lecture of last season.

She is at present the head of the plano department of Rollins collece, Winter Park, Fla., and is dividing fer time this season between her conservatory work and her lecture-recital tours.

The morning musicales, in which here concert comes, is free to all members of the Atlanta Music Study club. Admission will be by membership card. All those who have not yet joined the club, who desire to have the privilege of hearing her, can obtain their cards at the door upon payment of the annual dues of $2. Those desiring to arrange for cards prior to that time may obtain them from Mrs. Ewell Gay, chairman of the membership committee.

SOUTH IN THE CABINET. The Constitution trusts it will not be misunderstood as officlously interfering even by way of suggestion with the universally recognized right of President-elect Harding to select his own cabinet, in the expression of the hope that he will not overlook the south in the choice of his cabinet advisers.

What we have to say on the subject is said in the broadest terms of patriotism, and solely in the interest of the national welfare.

It is understood that several portfolio assignments have already been determined upon, but so far no announcement has been made by the president-elect that any southern man is to be included in the new cabinet, although the names of several prominent southern republicans are admittedly under consideration.

It is to be hoped in the interes of the general public welfare that in the formation of the cabinet no great section of the country will

Even at times when the south was solidly democratic, republican presidents have recognized and acted on the soundness of the principle that all sections sl be represented in the cabinet. Indeed, so far as we recall, there has been no exception to this rule. If this has been the custom under republican administrations at times when the south was solidly democratic, certainly the precedent should not be ignored at a ime when the solid south has been broken.

There are prominent republicans in the south of nationally recognized cabinet caliber-men who have the confidence not only of their own people, but of the whole country, and whose appointment to the cabinet would be generally approved.

Let us hope that the presidentelect will select at least one such man to serve in his cabinet.

He cannot well afford to do less.

CIVIC TEAM WORK.

Team thinking, team work and the common service of all-these constitute the admirable plan of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce for its new community service department.

The preliminary work of the chamber's new department has seen results in the magnificent Armistice Day celebration, when 20,000 Atlantans gathered at Five Points; and in the three successful gatherings at the Auditorium for Community Christmas. These were products of the chamber's team thinking and the resultant team work. There may be some who are not impressed with that form of community service, which is supported by the few for the entertainment of the many, but surely there are none who take exception to a plan which has for its fundamental idea the stimulation of each citizen's interest and activity for the common good of all. In the sponsorship of team thinking, the chamber of commerce is harnessing the principle that has made Atlanta what she is. With the rapid grewth of a city, there is the tendency to break into sections or classes, so that team work, denied team thinking as its logical predecessor, becomes ragged or impossible. The chamber's scheme of providing city-wias representation in planning provides opportunity for the community to express its desires, then furnishes the means

As has been wisely said, "The world is not so much advanced by the gigantic pushes of its mighty heroes as by the little pushes of the multitude of lesser folk."

It is this sort of constant "pushing" by the chamber of commerce -this keeping "everlastingly at it"-that will make Atlanta truly

GET BUSY!

There is sound sense and substance in the position expressed elsewhere upon this page by A. T. Stevens, a traveling salesman writing from Dublin, Ga., to his Atlanta employer.

The main economic difficulty in the way of a speedy return to normal business prosperity, as he sees Did it, consists in "inactivity" on the part of the average man.

"Nobody is at work." he says: every little town I go to is filled with peoble sitting down and doing nothing but 'cussing' everything and everybody."

They have "talked hard times until that is all you can hear, and is the only topic which seems to be familiar with the people."

He wants the public "to do some hing" and quit croaking! His advice to everybody out of work is to "get a job!" "Tell the people," he writes, "to do something; and if they can't make $2 a day, make $1; and if they can't get the kind of job they would like to have, get the next est thing." Mighty wholesome advice, that and the man offering it asks his employer to "get the Atlanta paers after it."

But here is one Atlanta paper that is not only already "after it," but that has been hammering on it in season and out of season for months and years—that is, on the desirability, if not the necessity, of everybody's always being busy. No matter what conditions may he idleness and grumbling are absolutely inexcusable. There is always something for verybody to do. This does not mean that every man may at all times select the kind of job he would like; but he can always find something-and something constructive and useful at which to busy himself at least while waiting for something better to "turn up."

And, as Mr. Stevens suggests, if everybody would go to work at whatever there may be for him to do, and be cheerful and optimistic and courageous, and quit grouching, pulling the long face and whining about hard times, optimism - which is contagious! would soon become general and all possible reason for complaint would quickly disappear.

SANCTITY OF CONTRACT.

York, recently handed down a decision compelling twenty - four merchants who had ordered sugar from a wholesale dealer in that city, the aggregate value of which at the time of purchase was in excess of $1,000,000, to pay the full amount that had been agreed upon by contract. The dealers had placed their orders for the sugar at 22 cents a the first part" could make delivery on the contracts the market had slumped to less than 10 cents a pound.

The consignors, "parties of the second part," refused to accept the sugar, claiming that technical variation from their contractstransportation of the sugar by another than the steamship agreed upon-constituted proper and adeaccept and pay for it.

The judge held, however, that the sugar was contracted for in have you do so. good faith; that the refusal to ac- BECK & GREGG HARDWARE CO. cept it was based upon a flimsy pretext to conceal the real purpose, which was to evade payment of a just obligation and thus to escape pecuniary loss.

He ordered the bills paid in full: and in doing so he did right.

A contract is a contract. It is a mutual agreement obligating each of the parties to it to do certain things, and there is no honorable escape from it except ditions and tell you nothing you by mutual consent.

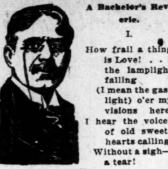

In the business world merchants make plans for the future, incurring indebtedness, upon the basis of the contract principle and upon the assumption that their own creditors are honorable and will meet their obligations. Failure to do that necessarily incurs hardship, and its tendency is toward universal business chaos and bankruptcy. A contract is a sacred thing: and once its sanctity were destroyed the whole business structure would come tumbling down. The way to bolster confidence and to keep alive the spirit of commercial integrity - without which prosperity is impossibleis for everybody, high or low, rich or poor, to treat a "I do hereby promise and agree" as an instrument that cannot be lightly ig

SOUND ADVICE FROM A TRAVELING MAN

Editor Constitution: I received in today's mail, from one of my traveling salesmen, A. T. Stevens, of Dublin, Ga., a letter, verbatim copy of which I inclose. It strikes me that this is about the

W. A. PARKER, President. The Letter Referred To.

Dublin, Ga., December 23, 1920 .-Mr. Parker: It appears to me that the main trouble with our people today is inactivity. Nobody is at work, every little town I go to is filled with people sitting down and doing nothing but "cussing" everything and everybody. Everybody has talked hard times until that is all you can hear, and is the only topic which seems to be familiar with the people.

I could write pages about condon't already know, but what I wanted to say is this, with your touch with the chamber of commerce and other bodies and the Atlanta and other bodies and the Atlanta dail papers: Don't you think it possible to start a propaganda of going to work: let them tell the people to do something and if they can't make $2 per day, make $1, and if they can't get the kind of a job they would like to have, get the next best thing, but for the sake of decency, get some kind of a job.

It's silly. The men who carry advertising banners—the sandwich men—are with us again. They disappeared during the war. A mounted policeman dashing down the avenue like he was going to a riot. He will probably pull up a side street and stroke his mustache.

High buildings and short skirts. I wonder if those two little iron men still whang the clock in Herald Square. A pawnshop for autos. And they say many are pawning them. They say the biggest holiday business was done by the perfume shops. That's what we get for sending our boys to France. I hope if they do revive the blue laws they do something about monocles. His face is longer than mine. Those theatrical ticket agencies on Broadway hum with activity. That one has twelve clerks and fourteen girls are busy at the telephone. Most of the theater tickets go there direct. As Rube Goldberg might say, it's all wrong. Food is now cheaper in the cabarets. But who goes to a cabaret to eat? I'll try to act city broke crossing this street.

On Park avenue shortly after dusk a limousine was bowling along northward. Suddenly the quiet of northward. Suddenly the quiet of the street was broken by a woman's scream inside the car. The chauffeur drew up at the curb and a woman in decollette evening dress stepped out from a cloud of smoke. Her dress was ablaze with sparks. Her dress was ablaze with sparks. Pedestrians rushed to her aid and soon extinguished the sparks. "I was dozing," she explained, "and my cigarette fell out of my hand." The crowd backed away apparently not knowing just what to say.

A hanger-on in an all-night cafe was telling a stranger of the wonders of New York. He spoke of th subway, the white way at night, the parks and skyecrapers, "And," he added, "you ought to be sure to see the Status of Liberty—you know, the big Jane with the torch!"

. I was in a magazine office re cently and saw the pile of manuscripts that had been received that day. They filled a large wicke day. They filled a large wicker basket. Yet at one side was a pile of about 15—and I noticed they had return addresses of writers who were well known. They were to receive immediate attention and the others were to be read when the editors got around to it. All of which is not very encouraging for the ambitious beginner.

SCHOOLS URGE LIBRARY FUND

All Officials Ask for Liberal Appropriation for Carnegie Library by the City Council.

Statements by Superintendent W F. Dykes, of the city school system, and by the principals of the high schools, as well as from men and women interested in Atlanta's educational welfare, point to the unanmous opinion that the hampering of the Carnegie library's work will materially injure the efficiency of the city's public school system.

All educational forces and prac tically every one of the city's civic and commercial organizations have stated their indorsement of the plea which will be made by the library poard for an increased appropria tion from city council, since it has been shown that the library is in dire need of better support, if it continues to serve the community as it has in the past.

Mr. Dykes' Statement. Superintendent Dykes has said: "A citizen of Atlanta, I trust that the mbers of the city council will see fit give the Carnegle library proper finan support. The value of the library to city cannot be estimated in dollars

Mias Jessie Muse, principal of the Girls' High school: "With the exception of the public school system, Atlanta has no agency for public education of the importance and value of its public library.

For two years, therefore, it is a fact that there has been little or

As stated in these dispatches several times recently the emergency tariff bill has a rocky road ahead of it in the senate. It has been re-ferred to the committee on finance, which possibly means "hearings," and in the meantime the public mind is getting further and further away from it.

To be sure, the republicans are in favor, in orthodox faithfulness to a time-honored creed, to a high proother hand, democrats are not free-traders. There are tens of thousands of democrats—many of them in congress—who believe in a protective tariff for specific products; and democrats believe unmistakably in a "tariff for revenue." It is a party faith.

And there are several other similar instances where "protection" cannot work a hardship upon consumers, cannot throttle American trade expansion, and is in every way wise and commendable, party democrats believe unmistakably in a "tariff for revenue." It is a party faith.

I say this in all frankness, and as a dyed-in-the-wool democrat.

I could illustrate dozens of startling examples that have been extractions of the work of the work of the dominion, on the reciprocal trade relations re-established early in the Wilson administration?

Let's recall some history—

Let's recall some history—

The McKinley bill went into ef fect in 1890. It carried disaster to many Canadian farmers, particular many Canadian farmers, particularly the growers of barley, who in those days found a good market in American breweries. A general election followed the next year. The dominion was depressed by hard times, the government was discredited and the opposition offered reciprocity with the states as a panacea for the ills that were everywhere in evidence. Despite its troubles the country refused to become a suppliant to the authors of the McKinley bill, and the government was returned.

In 1896 there was a charge in government on domestic issues. Lau rier, the new premier, sought to open trade relations at Washington. He was rebuffed, and the Dingley act came into effect almost immediately. The Payne-Aldrich bill of 1909 was tempered in spirit by the rec iprocity bill in 1911. While the latter was rejected by Canada its evidence of friendliness was not lost on the country. And when, under Mr. Wilson's administration, most of ties in the various purchasing de-

While the secretary in his letter expressed the continued friendship expressed the continued friendship of the United States government for the Russian people, he said that the evidence was "cumulative and conclusive that the military dictatorship of Russia, calling itself the soviet government, was appropriating large sums of money to stirup insurrection by force of arms against the United States government." It was this which made Marters, a member of the soviet government, liable to deportation, he added.

Martens, a member of the soviet government, liable to deportation, he added.

The letter was in reply to one from Recht on December 26, relative to the deportation of Martens to Russia and for which it had previously been announced that the soviet agent on January 3 will formally surrender himself to the United States authorities. In his answer, Secretary Wilson said that he had authorized the completion of arrangements for the departure of Martens "and the other persona he desires to go with him."

Secretary Wilson, in his letter, branded as "insulting" and as reflecting "the brutal materialistic conceptions of the dominant group in Russia," intimations said to have been contained in Recht's communication to the effect that profitable trade with Russia was so important in the American mind as to permit "our institutions to be undermined and destroyed, and our liberties submerged if we can have but access to that trade."

He said general staff-officers at the hearings had told Secretary Baker, who did not know, that the cost of the project would reach seven or eight hundred millions.

"The country is not in a condition to authorize such expenditures," Mr. Good said, "and the committee disallowed the request for money for any such prupose at the present time."

Mr. Goed pleaded for passage of the bill as presented by the committee, declaring it was necessary to act on it without regard to personal considerations. Behind the whole measure, he said, was an urgent desire to reduce the expenses of the government and lift part of the heavy tax burden.

The chairman explained that it was not possible at this time to estimate how much the appropriations in all the supply measures, about 15 in number, would be reduced from last year. The amount would depend, he said, on the policy to be adopted in providing funds for army and navy establishments. Mr. Goed pleaded for passage of Southerners will always remember, paid and stepped all over it in in 1920 as the particular year in which Lost Only Champion.

In puiglism there was just as noteously in national and international sport.

Up to this good year, which fades away tonight, the south had been from a sportive viewpoint largely nothing. Time was when the south had ruled the turf. No horse, either thoroughbred or standardbred, was considered seriously unless that horse had had a southern bringing up.

But that time has past. Except for Kentucky, the glory of the southern horse has long since departed. Since that time the effete east and the wild and wooly west have considered southerners not inept in possum hunting, quail shooting, corn whisky making and similar sports, but in competitive things we have been ranked simply as not these.

EVERY MAN is an infant prodigy. If not in his first childhood, then an infant prodicy is generally born in as small a town as possible and startles the world by playing twenty simultaneous games of colic with the best physicians of the state. IT'S HIS PARENTS' fault for keeping him in a cradle instead of a cage.

AT THE AGE of five he can put on graphophone records in eight lan-guages, and wins the Darwin prize in the Asbury Park baby parade. New York, December 30.—All the football fans are looking forward eagerly to the game on New Year's capelly to the game on New Year's day at Pasadena, between the University. of California and Ohio State University, the leading teams respectively of the Pacific Coast and Middle West conferences. The interest is particularly keen because many regard it as a kind of test of the forward pass. They are counting somewhat without their hosts in the belief that California is not familiar with the forward pass, however, for they not only use it, but defend against it well, and in Muller, their right end, they have a man with peculiar ability in receiving it.

The odds seem to favor California, and unless the fact is conceded that the trial horses upon whom California has worked out her victories are poorer than was believed, the chances would favor the coast team. They probably have not met any men as proficient in the throwing and receiving of the pass as the Workman-Stinchcomb and Meyer, but they have great confidence in the little to the old days of smashin, and be driver himself, but has had several years in building up this team, and during the last year has had the benefit of the assistance of Rosenthal, the old Minnesota player, who is past master in the Minnesota shifts and who should have contributed much.

Ten Years Younger Than His Years

Doesn't it make you feel good—cause you to straighten up and feel "chesty" when someone guesses your age at ten years or so younger than you really are? You look into your mirror, smile with satisfaction and say to yourself: "Well, he didn't make such a bad guess, at that."

The point is: You're no older than your vitality.

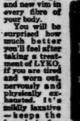

If a man is strong, vigor ous, mentally alert, fine and fit at 50 he has a better chance of living up to 80 than a man of 30 who is weak and run-down has of living up to 60. While none of us can stay the years nor stop time, we should all make an heroic effort to successfully resist the effects of time by ever keeping our vitality at par.

When you sease a feeling of slowing down of your physical forces—when your stemach, liver, kidneys and other organs show signs of weakness—when you notice a lack of your old time "pep" and "punch"—in other words, when you feel your vitality so the wane, you should com-

Seasoned Dividend Rails Gaining in Popularity

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, December 30.-Prices of both rails and industrials ened higher this morning, but irregularity soon developed as a ult of a further sharp decline in Atlantic Gulf and West Indies. ds irregularity was marked by substantial gains in automobile, tire and rubber shares, while the oils were selling off. Copper stocks were strong and the rails held steady, but Wednesday's advance of from 1 to 6 points in the rails was not continued. That pace was too fast, today there was some profit-taking. However, each day finds more friends for the seasoned dividendpaying rails. More reductions in working forces were announced today by widely scattered railroads, news of which in conservative banking ters here is considered highly favorable. With gross to work ith the railroads will be able to get operating expenses down. Up to the end of October the latest figures available for the carriers, as a whole, gross earnings for the ten months of 1920 amounted to $4,888,741,000, and these figures included only two months of the higher freight and passenger rates. For the full twelve months of 1917 the last year of private management gross earnings of the railroads were only $4.074,672,000; for 1920 it will run high into five billions. For 1915 gross was far under three billions.

Northern Pacific is now selling around 85 against 1181/4 for 1914 Northern Pacific is now selling around 85 against 118 ½ nor 1914 and 232 ½ in 1906. That company has been paying dividends without a break since 1899. Take one more, New York Central. Totay's price around 84½ compares with 174½ within the past twenty rears, and dividends have been paid without a miss since 1870. There are plenty more rails in the same seasoned dividend-paying class. Industrial Stocks Discussed.

Now, take the industrials. Atlantic Gulf, which brok 12 points ly today, 5 of it representing the semi-annual dividen that just ne off sold at 176½ early this year. Before the war the stock was around at plain 15 and did not know what a diviend looked like. If there is to be a return to pre-war condition som of the industrial stocks are going to sell lower. But if the rails too, are to so back to a pre-war basis, and it must be admitted that hey are no better off today than in 1914, in the matter of gross earing power, then those stocks should advance. One of the interesting news developments of the ay was the luction of from 4 per cent to 2 in the quarterly didend of the New Jersey Zinc company. Despite this action, hower, following similar steps by other companies in the same line sewd market observiers are sure accumulation is now going on inhe shares of companies identified with the copper and other metalrades. That does not include the steel shares. Lower prices are ing predicted for steel stocks simply because that industry has not en started to stock market today, although the movement in that group lacked much

Judge Gary is generally lookedon as a sound economist. In this line, however, he could learn sothing to advantage by giving thought to the news coming from west today to on their own initiative, have suggested a 20 per cent action in wages. It was the way in which this thing was done that res it so significant. Realizing existing conditions, such as those peed out by Judge Gary, the employes concluded that if reduced operig costs brought about by lower wages enabled the company to obt contracts, then Speaker Advocates Elimination of Labor Bosses for Public Good.

Michigan City, Ind., December 30. The open shop is founded on the over of the year. Old United States bonds were unchanged on call. principle of Americanism, established more than a century ago, while the closed shop is advocated by those who are the apostles in violence and force, in the oninion of John M. Glenn, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, speaking here today before the Rotary club. Elimination of labor bosses was declared to be one of the means of clearing the industrial situation and the influence of public opinion. Mr. Glenn said, would be the eruling factor in final settlement of industrial controversy....... "Two things have much to do with the present situation. One is whether Senator Harding will appoint a man for secretary of labor who carries a union card, and the other is whether congress will restrict immigration. The final action will have considerable to do with the success or failure of the shop movement. We do not believe a man who carries a union card and claims to represent two million union men will mage as good a secretary of labor as a man who represents all the people of the country. J. W. JAY & CO. New York, December 30.—(Special.)—The underlying features in cotton are strong and today's slight loss in quotations may be regarded as temporary.

ORVIS BROTHERS & CO. New Orleans, December 30.—(special.)—Upon reflection, after enduring the most drastic shrinkage in values during a year of modern times, the country at the close of the old year is confident as to the future. We desire to keep before our readers the probability of a radical reduction in the cotton acreage at planting time and of Egypt's decision, aiready announced, to cut the acreage in that country one-third next year. These developments will have a bull-lish influence ultimately.

"Congress is in a panic just now in reference to immigration. Do you know what would happen if congress closed the gates for a year? Mr. William H. Barr, president of the inter-racial council, says: "Those of the United States, yet they mine three-fourths of the coal, manufacture three-fourths of the clothing, half of the silk, woo; linen, lace and embroidered goods; bake more than half the bread, refine more than half the bread, refine more than half the sugar and put up half of the canned food. In my judgment there is only thing to do with immigration and that is to keep out the criminal and undesirables."

and provisions at setback of 5 to 12c.

Notwithstanding some hesitancy due to adverse industrial developments, bulls soon took control of wheat and held sway until near the end of the session. Signs of increased call from milling interests attracted the lion's share of notice as opinions were current that flour stocks were low and that the bulk of wheat accumulations at present in sight are owned by exporters. The advance in wheat prices, though, brought about attempts to realize profits. Late selling pressure was induced also by the bearish showing of the Bank of England's weekly statement and by ten million bushels increase of the estimated exportable surplus of wheat in Argentina.

Month-end iquidation weakened corn and oats after a moderate upturn had taken place in sympathy with the wheat bulge.

Declines in the hog market had a depressing effect on provisions.

Keith's Vaudeville.

Six big acts of vaudeville, creaming motion picture, comedy nd news feature pictures compos the year-end bill at B. F. Keith's Lyric theater, which opened Thurs-day afternoon and proved to be one the most attractive shown at the ric during the entire winter season.

The bill is headlined by Howard and Fields, assisted by Oscar Lee, who present "The Ragtime Dining Car," a black-face turn, staged in a new setting and affording some vocal numbers that please immensely. A flying roasted duck kept the audience in laughter for several minutes.

A tying roasted dick key the addience in laughter for several minutes.

Taylor, Howard and Them, appearing in "Officer 6-7-8," also won a good hand with their new chatter act, that is featured by the exhibition of some of the most peculiar animals ever seen on a local stage. Both the actors are clever, and their dogs, skunk, armadillo, anteater and others delight both grownups and kiddies.

The Reiff Brothers, dancing comedians, proved rather better dancers than comedians, the audience showing its approval of several of their eccentric numbers. Baby Bernadine, billed as a "vest-pocket edition of Eva Tanguay," made a distinct hit with several popular songs, sung with surprising ability for one so young.

The Elvira Sisters, dancing girls,

The Elvira Sisters, dancing girls, open the program with a neat turn, and Vim, Beauty and Health, in a "special feature on flying rings," give the program added variety. The addition of a splendid run of moving pictures made the bill a very popular one.

Loew's Vaudeville.

A well-balanced bill of vaudeville and pictures, featured by the diversity of the acts presented, closes the current week at Loew's Grand.

One of the brightest spots on the program is filled by Fred Gill and Frances Weak, who appear as customers at a typical "serve yourself" cafeteria. The sundry tribulations that patrons of a "one-armed" restaurant are wont to encounter are satirized mirthfully by this pair of artists, and the skit was warmly applauded.

"Syncopated Feet," a miniaturarevue, offering two pretty girls and an equal number of nimble youths, is a prettily-staged and strikingly-costumed production. Tom Mahoney, whose celtic ancestry is as plainly apparent in his appearance and speech as it shows in his songs and witticismis, is present in the role of, "the Irish chairman." His portrayal of a bricklayers' union meeting was especially clever.

"Vaudeylle as You Like It," introduces/Polly Follette and Leo Nadel in snappy songs and dialogue. The show opens with Tottle Reckless and Charles Arley, performers on the flying rings and the trapeze. The remarkable head-balancing feats by Arley and the proficiency of his feminine partner put the act above par. above par.

"Help Wanted, Male," a spirited drama with a marked element of comedy, is the Grand's screen head-liner, with Blanche Sweet scoring as

Clara Kimball Young.

(At the Criterion.)

"Mid-Chanel," the vivid story of domestic life, in which Clara Kimbali Young is appearing at the Criterion theater this week, continues to draw full houses. There are some dramas that are better on the screen than on the stage, and "Mid-Channel" is one of them. It is one of the greatest plays of married life that has ever been written and is by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, the celebrated English playwright. The effect of this photoplay is remarkable, an achievement in the motion picture world. The settings, gorgeous gowns, the interiors, which are lavish to the extreme and, above all, the wonderful performance of Clara Kimball Young, leave little to be desired in screen entertainment. (At the Criterion.)

"While New York Sleeps."

Realism and fidelity to detail are two elements on which the producers of "While New York Sleeps," the big screen production at the Rialto next week, makes its bid for the success of this picture. The photodrama is divided into three acts. The first depicts an enthralling incident which takes place in the home of a suburban militionaire. The second episode, gorgously invested, presents in pictures a version of the notorious "badger game." In this act is seen an entire dancing number from Zlegifeld's Midnight Frolic, together with scenes from the Palais Royal, a famous New York cafe. The third episode depicts a tragedy of New York's east side.

Midnight Frolic.

According to announcement by Manager Marty Semon, the Lyric fun festival will begin promptly at 10 p. m., with dancing in the pain garden of the theater. For this occasion a special jazz orchestra has been engaged. occasion a special jazz orchestra has been engaged.

From 11 o'clock until midnight a big-time vaudeville show, six acts of exception-sly good Keith vaudeville, will be presented, the entire bill having been booked specially for a New Year's show.

From midnight until 1 a. m. there will be more dancing in the Lyric palm garden, with a number of special cabaret attrac-tions thrown in to add zest to the occasion.

"It's a Great Life."

(At the Rislto.)
There are few boys who have not dreamed being king of a cambal island, with dusky slaves to answer their commands and untold wealth at their disposal. And there are few who reach that age of adventurous dreams who have not also found themselves times thinking of some pretty little playmate, who would make a fine white queen for the cambal kingdom.

Mary Roberts Rinehart has woven all the ambitious and love of youth into her story.

"The New York Idea."

Besides seeing the smartest clothes of the season and a builty horse race, patrons of the Forsyth theater last night learned the answer to a very stiff problem in geometry—or domestic mathematics—said problem providing the plot theme for the photoplay, "The New York Idea," in which Alice Brady again shows her skill as a high-powered emotional actress.

Lowell Sherman, a Broadway favorite, is leading man, playing the role of Cynthis's (Miss Brady), husband, whom the impulsive young woman divorces. Of course, the final close-up finds her in the right pair of arms. Suffice it to say that this settire on society's divorce habit is good entertainment, and the picture is staged on a scale which puts it almost in the class of special pictures.

He inds a desperado, Razor Joe, running hings to suit himself and takes the edge off Razor Joe by driving him out of town. There is a beautiful and thrilling love tory running like a thread of gold through stirring, highly original tale that teems with plenty of adventure and gun play. Dark-eyed Margery Wilson appears in the eading feminine role.

Macon, Ga., December 30 .- (Spe ial.)-A notation he had carelessy written on a sales slip of a Macon grocery store and left lying on the customers' counter in the Bank of Byron shortly before he held up S. J. Barron, cashier of that institution several days ago and relieving him of $800, was the clue that finally led to the identification of Louis W. Mims, of Macon, as the man who had committed the hold-up. Mims is now confined in the Houston county Jail at Perry, it being alleged by local detectives who placed him under arrest at Barnesville late last night that he has made a full confession.

Apparently, Mims was more concerned about recovering a silk umbrella he left in the bank at the time of the hold-up, than he was about the predicament he now finds himself in, for he asked the detectives what had become of the umbrella, and said: "Now that you have got me, I think I am entitled to have my umbrella back." on grecery store and left lying on

Story of Robbery. According to Mims' story to the letectives, he took an automobile belonging to Clerk Nisbett, of the Bibb superior court, and drove Byron. He left the engine in Byron. He left the engine in the car running, when he went into the bank. As there was a customer in the bank at the time, he stepped to a writing desk, pulled out a sales slip from a local grocery store, showing the purchase of a number of articles with footings.

With pen and ink, he scratched away on this sales slip until the customer left. When the coest was clear he dropped his pen, forgot to destroy the sales slip, on which he had written the words: "Cashier's check," lifted his hat high enough to pall down a mask that he had hidden in the top of his hat, and then drawing an Automatic Colt's .45-caliber pistol, he proceeded to the business of holding up the cashier.

In his alleged confession, Mims claimed it was only a "bluff job."

Mims was despondent after his arrest. He says he was driven to commit the robbery because he had been playing the cotton market and had lost heavily.

Mims is 27 years of age, and for some time had been known as Macon's "Beau Brummel bookkeeper." He was declared by his friends to have always been one of the best dressed men in Macon. He is an expert with the typewriter and has had positions with a number of Macon firms.

Rhallis Declares Recall of Constantine Exemplifies Right of Self-Gov-

The reply which covers two typed pages, contains but vague expressions. It volces the hope that the allies will pass over recent events in the face of the real situation and says that Greece asserted by the vote returning Constantine, the right of peoples to gov-

M. Rhallis' note was approved by King Constantine. SHARE IN PROFITS FAILS TO SATISFY

PLANT EMPLOYEES Newbern, N. C., December 30—The profit-sharing system as a means of averting strikes was in a state of collapse today so far as the Newbern Iro Works and its employees were concerned. One week's work under the new idea found the workers' pay envelopes 10 per cent shy and today both the plant and the men were idle.

Four weeks ago 76 cents an hour was the scale in the big foundry and machine works. A 10 per cent wage reduction was ordered on the ground that it would be necessary to cut expenses or close the plant. A one-day strike followed.

Another 10 per cent lowering of the scale was soon proposed, but the suggestion by a workman that the company run the plant, deduct actual operating and overhead expenses and divide that part of the income termed "profits" wasagreed to by officials as an experiment. Last Friday the men received amounts equalling 20 per cent reductions from the old wage of 76 cents an hour. Yesterday a strike was called.

The strikers declared today they intended to remain idle until the old wage scale was restored. Company officials said it would be necessary to keep the plant closed unless the employees made concessions. Newbern, N. C., December 30-The
